

Legislative Advocacy

Straight Talk in the Legislature

Andrews Kurth has extensive experience helping clients handle complex legislative issues. Our work has included every aspect of legislative advocacy, including legislative strategy, lobbying, ethics analysis, bill analysis, monitoring and bill drafting.

We provide primary legislative counseling and lobby services to many individual clients as well as industry and trade groups. We have extensive experience in building coalitions, with particularly strong substantive experience on energy issues, tax issues, and public transportation and other large public projects requiring legislative authorization.

Our lawyers have significant industry and technical experience and can strategically analyze proposed legislation and the ultimate implementation of new enactments. We work with government decision makers to suggest improvements and demonstrate how our proposals further important policy goals.

Andrews Kurth's strong public policy groups in Texas and Washington, DC, have decades of experience working with the state and federal regulatory agencies that have subject matter expertise and authority over technical issues. This further allows us to provide comprehensive support of clients' goals through the use of strategic legislative policies and measures.
