Andrews Kurth Announces New Leadership for Recruiting Committee in Dallas

September 10, 2009

Dallas, Texas

(DALLAS)—Andrews Kurth has announced that Quentin Faust will assume leadership of the firm's Recruiting Committee for the Dallas office.

Faust will serve as Chair of the Committee and as the Dallas Hiring Partner.

"My predecessor, Kay Lynn Brumbaugh, has handed me a well organized and successful recruiting program," said Faust. "I look forward to building on that foundation."

The firm actively recruits top students from leading law schools in Texas and throughout the United States. Andrews Kurth also actively recruits top lateral candidates and provides a personal and professional development program for the firm's lawyers.

"We have traditionally had a strong recruiting program," said Mark Solomon, Managing Partner of the Dallas office. "I know Quentin will work with the rest of the Dallas committee to continue this legacy."

Faust is a partner in the Corporate section of the firm. He has a wide-ranging business law practice where he functions as outside general counsel to a variety of public and private corporations. Faust received his BA, summa cum laude in 1985 from Southwestern College, his MA in 1990 from Wichita State University and his JD, cum laude in 1997 from Cornell Law School.
