At Andrews Kurth, we believe that teamwork is the framework for effective, efficient client service. Our recruiting efforts are aimed at locating, securing, developing and retaining attorneys who are not only qualified to handle complicated legal issues, but who also share our commitment to cooperation and collaboration among colleagues.

While we recognize that growth is essential to both meeting the expanding needs of current clients and responding to new opportunities, we are extremely selective in our recruiting process. We seek individuals who demonstrate the potential for professional excellence, with the expectation that the lawyers who join Andrews Kurth will reach the level of partner, and remain with us throughout their legal careers.
