ADMITTED

California 1976
District of Columbia 1984

Ralph handles and tries civil litigation and appellate matters with respect to administrative, arbitration, and jury and non-jury judicial proceedings, seeking to resolve business disputes and personal injury claims in a broad range of substantive legal areas. Examples of those areas are: administrative law, bankruptcy law, complex commercial transactions, environmental law, Indian affairs, natural resources, probate and water. He practices before the United States Supreme Court and the lower federal courts, as well as the California Supreme Court, lower state courts, and the District of Columbia courts.

Ralph has extensive experience in various senior positions with the federal and California state governments. Those positions include, among others, Solicitor, US Department of the Interior, Principal Deputy Assistant Attorney General and Acting Assistant Attorney General, US Department of Justice, Office of Legal Counsel, US Administrative Committee of the Federal Register, US Western Water Policy Review Commission, US Border Environmental Plan Public Advisory Committee, California Secretary of State Voter Task Force, and staff assistant to California Governor Ronald Reagan. In response to the Alaskan Oil Spill in 1989, Ralph chaired an interagency steering committee overseeing the US government's preparation of the natural resource damage assessment. In his practice, he utilizes the full range of this expertise to represent clients in federal and California state government relations matters, especially in the natural resources and environmental area.
